The Chicago Tribune.

Sunday Morning, April 25, 1875.

It is the duty of every citizen who personally observed any irregularities, violations of the Election law, or fraudulent voting on Friday, to communicate the fact with his name to the Citizens' Association at once, to help in the setting-aside of the fraudulent result.

At most of the polls on Friday there was but one ballot-box, though the people were voting on two separate questions—the charter and minority representation. Two folded ballots were stuffed into one and the same box, every time, so that it was impossible to tell whether the voter polled one vote on the charter and one on minority representation, or two votes on the charter. The probability is, that every hired voter who voted "For the Charter" put in two ballots in this way instead of one. And such balloting is to be permitted to extend the term of a lot of official scoundrels with the privilege of doubling our taxes!

Among the countless frauds committed at Friday's election under the management of the Common Council Ring there was a case of ballot-box stuffing in the Twentieth Ward which can be proved. Notwithstanding the bullying of the Miss CORCORAN and Jim McHALES in a hundred of gentle men, including Mr. A. C. HESKIN, the Rev. Mr. CHAMBERLAIN, A. M. F. FENCE, L. N. ADAMS, G. H. FERGUS, and others, gathered at the polls and asserted their rights. They succeeded in getting two challengers inside the room, who remained at the peril of their persons until the votes were counted. We are credibly informed that one of these gentle men was the witness of ballot-box stuffing at the last, and will testify to it.

The vote of the First Ward on the incorporation act was returned as follows:

For the act, 1,632.

Against, 97.

Total vote, 1,729.

Majority for, 1,632.

This exceeds the majority reported in the city "For" by 245 votes. The actual fact is, there were not 500 legal votes cast in the First Ward. More than 1,300 tickets were stuffed into the ballot-box. There are no such number of legal voters in the First Ward, and it is doubtful whether two out of every five went near the polls. No poll-books were kept. The names of those who voted were not recorded. It is also reported that the persons who acted as judges were not sworn. The whole election from first to last, in this ward, was irregular, and in palpable violation of every provision of the Election laws of the State.

The fraudulent voting in the Seventh and Eighth Wards on Friday is attested by the best kind of evidence. Mr. H. P. DUNIGAN was remained at the polls in the Eighth Ward till 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and at that time there had only been 207 votes cast. Other gentlemen who remained till the polls were closed testify that there were not more than 600 to 700 votes cast in that ward altogether. Yet the return from that ward shows 1,900 votes! Senator MILES KENYON gives materially the same testimony with regard to the Seventh Ward. His personal observation during the day was, that the people were voting against the charter, and that the vote was very small. Yet the return of the Seventh ward over 1,900 votes in all, and over 1,400 for the charter! As there was no poll-list, there was no check upon the ballots. How they got into the boxes so numerous it is easy to judge.

We desire to call special attention of the music-lovers of Chicago to the series of five Thomas concerts to be given at McCormick's Hall this week. The particulars of these concerts will be found in the musical column; but it is proper to say here that the people were voting against the charter, and that the vote was very small. Yet the return of the Seventh ward over 1,900 votes in all, and over 1,400 for the charter! As there was no poll-list, there was no check upon the ballots. How they got into the boxes so numerous it is easy to judge.

materially by the pamphlet issued by the management, containing descriptive articles on the music produced. Altogether, this season offers some compensation for the lack of such a Festival as Cincinnati is to have.

IS THERE ANY LEGAL REMEDY?

We do not know that there is any legal remedy for the fraudulent election of Friday last, yet it is difficult to understand that in a government of law an organized mob, disregarding all the forms and requirements of law, can fill ballot-boxes with tickets, or make up fictitious returns, and have them returned as the result of an "election," and there should be no legal remedy or corrective of the fraud. There is a rule—and if it does not apply to elections it certainly ought to do so—that a fraud violates any proceeding, official or unofficial. In cases of election of officers the law provides legal methods of contesting and remedying any wrongs that may have been done. But this is not a case of that kind. The Common Council will probably to-morrow night undertake to canvas and declare the vote on Friday, and officially announce that the charter of 1872 has been adopted! We suppose that any action to correct the evil ought to be had before that declaration takes place. It is a question for lawyers and for the Courts to determine in the first place whether the City Council may or may not be temporarily enjoined or prohibited from declaring the result of the election. If such prohibitory intervention by the Courts be legal on the ground that when such result is declared the public are irreparably injured, and without legal remedy, that the question of the legality of the election can be heard upon evidence as to the manner in which it was conducted.

This is one of the most vital questions that has yet addressed itself to our citizens. It reaches the interests and property of every man in Chicago. If the charter be declared adopted, is that an end of the matter? Will the act be accomplished irreversibly? We suppose that some action will be taken to-morrow that will test the question whether there is any remedial or preventive authority to prevent execution and accomplishment of such an act as will give legal finality and confirmation to this pretended and notoriously irregular and fraudulent election.

THE DRAMA.

As the dramatic season draws to a close it becomes more and more untroubling for the reviewer. Romeo, which supplied material for more than one article, and left a doubtful interest as to its value, has not yet ceased to busy itself about the affairs of the managers and actors, but it has overdone the master, and nobody pays much attention to its utterances. There are many rumors still afloat, but into what solid shape they may eventually materialize is doubtful. One is that Gardner is going to leave the Academy to its fate, but that scarcely can be possible, as everybody is agreed that Gardner is the only man who can run the Academy of Music. Another is that Gardner is going to sell Hooley or Maguire, or whatever it is who will run Hooley's next season. But that rumor cannot be trusted implicitly. A third places Frank Lawlor at the head of the Academy. These three are perhaps but different versions of the one fact that Gardner is in doubt what he will do next season. The public is interested to the extent of knowing what will be the policy of the Academy, and the managers are equally interested in what is to remain a first-class theater. The closing—for it will amount to—of a theatre which we saw Clara Morris, Tool, John McCullough, Jameson, Mr. J. B. Booth, and the rest of the stars will be a calamity.

THE CUSTOM-HOUSE.

Sudden Removal of Superintendent Rankin.

Appointment of Gen. Holman as His Successor.

Mr. B. Does not Understand the Reason of it All.

About a week ago, Mr. Potter, the new Supervising Architect of the United States Treasury Department, visited the city, and during his stay of two or three days, inspected the Custom-House and Post-Office buildings, and quietly investigated the manner in which the superintendent conducted his business, and the charges against him. It was intimated from Washington, after his departure, that his examination was not satisfactory, and a rumour prevailed that Mr. Rankin was to be removed. The report proved true, since there came to this city yesterday,

GEN. J. H. HOLMAN, who was the author of a letter from Mr. Potter, relaying Mr. Rankin, and placing Gen. Holman in charge of the work. The exact physiology of the document is not known, but it is said no reasons were assigned in it for the displacement.

MR. RANKIN.

A reporter called on Mr. Rankin at his home, No. 452 Michigan avenue, last evening, to learn what he had to say about the matter, and the interview is subjoined.

REPORTER.—What reasons were given for your removal?

MR. RANKIN.—None. I am glad of it, since I now resume my business in the architect, which I come to Chicago originally to do.

REPORTER.—Did Mr. Potter find any fault while he was here?

MR. RANKIN.—He said nothing whatever.

REPORTER.—Have you any idea where he was?

MR. RANKIN.—No. I suppose I belong to some other department.

Everything has been very unpleasant, and so I simply concluded that he had been disgruntled.

There are more complications than there are drops of water.

REPORTER.—Of what nature?

MR. RANKIN.—Downright stupidity.

REPORTER.—On whose part?

MR. RANKIN.—I could not get a straight explanation about going ahead or not of the nature of business, or anything of that sort.

REPORTER.—Why not?

MR. RANKIN.—Oh I don't know; because of changes, I guess.

REPORTER.—When did you first learn that you were displaced?

MR. RANKIN.—This morning by a letter from the Department brought by Gen. Holman.

REPORTER.—He is the son of the Superintendent. I think he belongs to St. Louis.

MR. RANKIN.—He came in and handed me the letter, and I intend turning over everything to him tomorrow morning.

REPORTER.—Any delay may be likely to occur in the work, in consequence of this action of the Department.

MR. RANKIN.—There should be none. The organization is perfect now, and there cannot be any difficulty in carrying on the work. There will be plenty of time to get the work done.

THE PLANS TO BUILD ARE:

REPORTER.—Are not all the plans prepared?

MR. RANKIN.—No; they are making in Washington by degrees; there is nothing ahead I know of.

REPORTER.—Was it never intimated to you that you were or manner of conducting business?

MR. RANKIN.—No. I suppose the Department got tired of reading my reports, and so I got tired of reading the reports of the Superintendent.

REPORTER.—What do you say?

MR. RANKIN.—He came in and handed me the letter, and I intend turning over everything to him tomorrow morning.

REPORTER.—Any delay may be likely to occur in the work, in consequence of this action of the Department.

MR. RANKIN.—He came in and handed me the letter, and I intend turning over everything to him tomorrow morning.

REPORTER.—Any delay may be likely to occur in the work, in consequence of this action of the Department.

MR. RANKIN.—There should be none. The organization is perfect now, and there cannot be any difficulty in carrying on the work. There will be plenty of time to get the work done.

THE PLANS TO BUILD ARE:

REPORTER.—Are not all the plans prepared?

MR. RANKIN.—No; they are making in Washington by degrees; there is nothing ahead I know of.

REPORTER.—Was it never intimated to you that you were or manner of conducting business?

MR. RANKIN.—No. I suppose the Department got tired of reading my reports, and so I got tired of reading the reports of the Superintendent.

THE SISTERS OF LORETO.

Judge Williams was enraged yesterday in hearing a plea in statement to the bill of complaint of the Sisters of Loreto against Thomas Foley, Catholic Bishop of Chicago. Last September the Sisters filed their bill setting out in substance that they were a regularly organized corporation; that in 1889 they had bought of the then Catholic Bishop of this diocese, Bishop Duggan, an academy, No. 141, West Adams street, near St. Patrick's Church, subject to some encumbrances, which they were to pay on, in the condition principally that they were to maintain indefinitely a parochial school. They took the school, and taught the pupils until August, 1871, when Bishop Foley, who succeeded Bishop Duggan, and gave them a new lease, and induced some of the Sisters to leave. Informed of this, the Bishop gave them a deed, and had it signed apparently by the Mother Superior, but really by some one who was induced to personate her. This alleged fraudulent deed was then put on record, and, acting under it, the Bishop took possession of the premises, and has since retained it. The bill, therefore, prayed that the school should be declared null and void.

WASHINGTON.

Decision Relative to Shipments of Goods Through Canada in Bond.

An Explanation as to the Falling Off in Internal Revenue Receipts.

The Spanish Government Pays Half of the Virginian Award.

Encouraging Report of the Operations of the New Syndicate.

A Plan to Defeat the Sub-Leasing of Postal Contracts.

Special Orders to the Chinese Tribes.

Washington, D. C., April 24.—The Cabinet situation today remains unchanged. Notwithstanding the existing and conflicting rumors, there is good authority for renewing the statement that the President has not asked Delano to resign. Indeed, Delano has to-day again positively stated that he does not intend to resign, or to leave the Cabinet. There is, however, great outside pressure to compel his withdrawal, and many of the leading men in the party are known to favor it.

The President has not yet accepted the resignation of Attorney-General Williams.

Frontiers Customs REGULATIONS.

The Secretary of the Treasury to-day issued an circular Circular of Customs which directs that the quarrel which has so long existed between certain Customs houses on the frontier from time to time, relative to the transportation of goods to and from, and through the Canadas. This quarrel has been removed under every consideration of law and equity. It was removed by the regulations of March 30 last, issued under the treat of Washington, which was to have settled the question, but it was again brought up on account of the conduct of the collector of customs of the collection of Portland, Me., and of Vasson. This decision is likely to have some influence upon Western commerce if the Grand Trunk Railroad Company carries on its intended line of communication. It is the opinion of the Secretary that the decision should be adverse to Portland to abandon the warehouses of the road at Portland, to complete the Inter-Colonial Road and make the road a port on the soil of the United States. It is expected that the result of this would be to transfer to Halifax all the exports from Michigan and the interior states westward, and to the port of the Lakes, and in the way of Port Huron. The Secretary has decided against the claims of Portland. He rules that the expense of removal, travel, and expenses of the collection for several years under a Consumer manifest does not excuse the merchandise in question from the necessity of entry at the first port, but that an entry thereof is indispensable before it can be sent to any other port. It is proposed to reverse the policy of the United States. Such entry, however, need not necessarily include entry for exportation, but may, at the option of the port, duty be applied to the goods as if they were to be shipped in bond, conditioned in the usual manner, for the delivery of the merchandise to the collector at the port of entry from the United States.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue is of the opinion that the decrease in internal revenue is due to the fact that the amount of gold which has been sent to the Bureau has greatly diminished since the passage of the new law. The statistics of the Bureau for the month of March show that the average amount of gold sent to the Bureau is the same as it is before the law, but the amount withdrawn from bond is but little more than 3,000,000 dollars, while the amount sent usually withdrawn for the month is 1,000,000.

The news from the new Nubile is very favorable. They have ordered another instalment of bonds for $100,000.

THE POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT BUREAU.

The Postmaster-General proposes to correct another irregularity in the execution of contracts. Heretofore, he has been the sole contractor to obtain a large number of contracts and then submit them at much lower rates than are paid by the Government. It is proposed to have the Postmaster-General furnish a list of contractors, with their names and the price paid by the Government in every case. Persons who then want to buy these contracts from the Postmaster-General will be compelled to pay a sum which will be the same as that used in bidding. It will be possible to protect the country from a serious epidemic. The statistics which are now prepared upon the subject of yellow fever are not reliable. The usual precautions were taken against much less severely in 1873 than other cities. In New Orleans itself the fever at no time became epidemic, owing to the extremely careful sanitary measures.

PERSONAL.

The Washington Envoy has now come with the arrival of the new legation for the United States, and the Pope should ever leave Italy will locate here.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST YELLOW FEVER.

According to information in this quarter, all the medical authorities are now beginning to take sanitary preventive measures against the yellow fever. The medical authorities here are confident that if the quarantine regulations are properly enforced, the fever will not spread. South Africa and the United States are affected. It will be possible to protect the country from a serious epidemic. The statistics which are now prepared upon the subject of yellow fever are not reliable. The usual precautions were taken against much less severely in 1873 than other cities. In New Orleans itself the fever at no time became epidemic, owing to the extremely careful sanitary measures.

PERSONAL.

Gov. Beveridge is expected. John Delano has returned. Atkinson, the new Commissioner of Patents, is expected to come.

THE CHICAGO CUSTOM-HOUSE BUILDING.

The building in the law containing the approbation for the Chicago Custom-House, as it is published in the law of Congress.

For the use of the Bureau of Customs and the Treasury, Chicago, Ill., $100,000: Provided, That the limitation upon the cost of said building, heretofore made by law, shall not be exceeded, except in case of fire, but the same shall in no event, when fully completed, exceed that sum; and the amount so expended shall be paid to the Bureau of Customs and of the Board of Commissioners of the Custom-House, and the same shall be necessary to the completion and plan of said building, as necessary to comply with the provision, and so that the same shall be available for the use of the Bureau of Customs and the Treasury.

THE PAPAL ENVOY.

The Washington Envoy thinks that the visit of the Papal Envoy here may have some connection with the action of the Pope in his decision for the United States, and the Pope should ever leave Italy will locate here.
